WOOD'S MINSTRELS, Wood's Musical Hall. 444 Broad

New York, Sunday, October 31, 1852.

Last evening a numerous meeting of the democracy took place at Tammany Hall. It was one of the most important held for some time, in point of eloquence and enthusiasm, and the speeches will be read with deep interest. It will be seen that a plot to defeat the democratic county ticket was discovered and exposed by Mr. Sickles, which caused much excitement. It was by the issue of some eighty thousand circulars, enclosing spurious tickets, which were seized at the Broadway Post Office and carried off in triumph to Tammany Hall. But the political excitement last night was not by any means confined to Tammany Hall. The whole country was in complete effervescence. Party gatherings of all kinds took place in every city, village and hamlet, and all sorts of speeches were made by the real and would be leaders of every faction, clique, or creed. It was the last Saturday night prior to the election-a night when the merchant, the mechanic, the professional man, and the laborer -- all, could conveniently assemble, without interfering with their business arrangements, and lisen to the political wisdom of the numerous orators with which the land abounds. It was an opportunity that the wire-pullers, of every description, could not permit to pass without a long, a strong, and a final pull, all together. What will be the result of their labors, we shall probably know on Wednesday morning-that is, if the weather is fair, and the telegraphic wires are in working order. At all events, the summing up in the contest for the Presidency will be closed to merrow; the case will be submitted to the jury-consisting of over three millions of voters- on Tuesday, and their verdict will be promulgated far and wide before the week is out. In the meantime, let us to day return thanks for what we have already received, and hope for a still better state of things in future.

According to our Albany correspondent, the de mocrats and whigs of that city got up rival torchlight processions and meetings last Friday night, and everything worked to the admiration of both parties, until the time came for speaking in the whig assemblage, when, to the great mortification of the multitude, they found themselves almost entirely bereft of orators. The great gans who were announced for the occasion were missing, and those present who were desirous of listening to speeches of any kind, were forced to wend their way to the democratic gathering, where they had any quantity of speakers, who were uttering strong, old fashioned arguments, to the great edification of enthusiastic thousands. It was all glitter, pomp, and show-" fuse and feathers"-with the whigs and when they wanted something more substantial, they found it necessary to go over and partake of the cheer of their adversaries. Another frightful railroad accident took place on the New Haven road yesterday. While the train was crossing the bridge at Windsor Locks, Conn . one of the rails broke, when the three hindmost cars were thrown off the track, and the last one was precipitated into the canal in twelve feet of water. Two brothers, named Parker, who returned from Cal fornia in the steamer Georgia, on the night previous and were on their way to surprise their wives, were drowned, and several other passengers were seriously injured. The three cars above mentioned were completely smashed to pieces, and the track was so broken up as to render it impossible for trains to pass over it. This is the second accident of the kind that has happened within a very short

One of the government organs at Washington, in speaking of Capt. Porter's difficulty with the Cuban authorities, declares that when official information of the affair is obtained, the administration will be found ready and able to maintain the national honor. Waiting for official information, ch? This was not waited for, prior to ordering the transfer of Capt. Porter from the Crescent City to the Georgia.

A highly interesting meeting of the New York Historical Society was held at their rooms in the University, last evening, specially convened for the purpose of testifying their sense of the loss which science, literature, law, and the country at large, have sustained in the death of Daniel Webster. There were many distinguished members of the jegal and other professions present, and some admirable speeches made, which, for want of space, we are compelled to postpone.

Sermons in commemoration of Mr. Webster, will be preached in various churches throughout the country this day. We shall endeavor to lay before our readers to-morrow, reports of the sermons of some of the divines in this city.

Another fight between the police and rowdies came off in Philadelchia yesterday morning, in which the latter had decidedly the best of it-they having made their excepe, after shooting and severely injuring three or four of the officers.

The ceremony of erecting the first column of the Crystal Palace came off yesterday, according to announcemest. Considerable enthusiasm was manifested by the large number of persons who attended to witness the spectacle. Mr. Sedgwick, Governor Hunt, and others, delivered addresses-full reports of which, together with the proceedings, we shall publish to morrew.

In the Supreme Court, the injunction which has for nearly four years prevented the heirs of John Mason from bringing to trial the validity of his alpeged will, has been dissolved. It seems that the will was originally admitted to probate by the Surrogate, but on appeal, his decision was reversed, and in such cases the statute directs a trial by jury ; not withpranding which, the executors were enabled to procure an injunction prohibiting the claimants from trying the question in dispute. This, at last, is effectually dissolved, and the cause will nov tried.

Charles Scudder, the negro who was convicted of the wilful murder of Mrs. Robbins, a white woman, in Comac, L I , last March, suffered the extreme penalty of the law, at Riverhead, Suffolk county, on Friday We have in type a full report of the incidents connected with the murder, and the confession and execution of the unfortunate man, which, with much other interesting reading, we are obliged to defer till to morrow.

Four days' later news from Europe is now fully due by the Collins steamer Pacific. She will probably arrive in the course of the day.

The Last Card of the Webster Men_Stands

ing Fast to their Position. When General Wolfe lay mortally wounded upon the Plains of Abraham, he was startled with the shouts-" They fly !" "They fly !" "Who fly ?" he enquired with quick impatience. "The enemy. "Then," said he, "I die contented." And so, we may readily suppose that the last days of Daniel Webster's life were brightened by the total rout of the Seward party and their allies, in the preliminary skirmishes of the late State elections, from Maine to Florida, and from Maryland to Missouri. Mr. Webster had joined issue with the Seward party, between the constitution and "the higher law"-between our compromises with the South and the revival of the lavery agitation-and they had forced him back to the wall, where he has fallen, without abating a jot or a tittle of his conscientious repugnance to the Baltimore whig nominations, or to the means and appliances by which, and to the purposes for which, they were effected. There was some reason, however, to apprehend that with the death of Mr. Webster, his wrongs would be forgotten, and that the great principles upon which he had resolved to "sink or swim, survive or perish," would be practically abandoned by his friends; and that most of them, as between the whig party and the democratic, would, as the only remaining alternative, fall back upon Scott and Graham. t is still highly probable that a considerable portion of the Webster party proper of Massachusetts, under the impression that having done all they could do fer Mr. Webster, and that they can now do no better, will vote for General Scott. It is highly probable, too, that the result of this sort of reasoning among the rank and file of the Webster men of Massachusetts, will give that State to General Scott, on Tuesday next, by a decided vote. From the antecedents of the whole whig party of Massachusetts, we have suspected, and still think, that a considerable portion of the Webster branch will, as (in their judgment,) a choice between two evils, go over, to the support of the Seward ticket; or, the shock which they have sustained in the death of Mr. Webster has so prostrated them that they will permit the election to go by default, as a contest in which they cease to have any special interest or personal preference. We had also concluded that the eleventh-hour-Webster organization of this city and State, would drop to pieces with the loss of their illustrious champion, as a movement which had served its purpose in vindicating and defending and maintaining the cause of the great statesman to the end of his glorious career. But it seems that the statement of the Courier and Enquirer concerning that letterthat dreadful letter-that letter which Mr. Webster "never signed"-has had quite the contrary effect. The Webster men of New York have held a meeting, and, as may be seen by their published card in yesterday's HERALD, they stick to their electoral ticket, they stick to their principles, and they proclaim as their motto, "Men die-Principles never!"

It thus appears that the editor of the Courier, in his labor of love to draw the conservative Union Webster whigs, of New York, off to the support of the Seward ticket, has been labor in vain. Perhaps the Webster men bad but little faith in his sincerity or discretion; perhaps the humiliating confession which General Webb has made concerning the mission of that strange and unexampled committee of five to Marshfield, has made it necessary to vindicate Mr. Webster's consistency of purpose and adhesion to fixed principles, even now that he is in his grave. The motives, objects, and purposes of the Webster men are, however, laid down with telling emphasis and distinctness, in their card, entitled the "People's Electoral Ticket."

How strange and startling this conjuncture of great events! On Friday last Mr. Webster's mortal remains were carried to the grave; and on Saturdsy his steadfast political friends in New York deliberately meet, consult, and resolve to fight out his battle, although their great leader has fallen Their proclamation has the ominous sound of the speech of Mark Antony over the dead body of Julius Casar. It comes upon the heel of the election, to the Seward eliques, like the solemn warning voice of Casar's ghost to Brutus-" We'll meet again at Phillippi !" It is an omen of terror, defeat, and destruction.

Nor are the New York Webster men alone in their achesion to the great fundamental principles which first induced them to abandon the Seward party. The Webster men of Georgia, who were foremost in the field with an electoral ticket in his behalf, intend to adhere to that ticket, though Mr. Webster is no more. They have made a movement, substituting Fillmore and Crittenden for Webster and Jenkins; but whether it is or is not generally adopted by the independent Union whigs of the State, it is abundantly manifest that they have done enough to render Georgia one of the surest States in the Union for a verdict against the Seward nominations. But still the blow of the Webster whigs of New York is the most merciless and deadly.

The battle comes off on Tuesday. All the signs in the beavens, and in the earth, and in the waters under the earth," foreshadow an overwhelming defeat to the Baltimore whig ticket. In anticipation of this defeat, it is well, perhaps, that there is a nucleus in the whig ranks of the North, for the Union and the constitution; for we shall see the real colors of Seward and his allies in the event of their overthrow.

THE GERMAN VOTE .- As in the case of the Irish. so in the case of the Germans-every ingenuity is resorted to obtain their votes for Scott, and German agents have been hired to influence them; but all will not do-they regard the unretracted letter of General Scott, in which he declared he would deprive the Germans, as well as other citizens of foreign birth, of the right to vote, as the best reason in the world for not giving him their votes as long as they possess that right. The Germans, like the Irish, are democrats, and they will vote for Pierce, progress and democracy.

WHIG MONEY IN CIRCULATION -It is said that immense sums of whig money, collected in the departments at Washington, and in the New York and Philadelphia custom houses, and elsewhere, is in circulation in Pennsylvania and New York, to be brought into special requisition on Tuesday next. We should not wonder if there were some stirring scenes on Tuesday next, in New York and Penn-

A POLITICAL CURIOSITY.-The Courser and Enquirer, about these days, is a political curiosity. It has little or nothing to say about American polities; but yesterday it sprung a new mine against Louis Napoleon.

Gene to Onio .- Mr. Corwin, the Secretary of the Treasury, has gone out to Ohio to vote for Scott and Graham. All right.

THE CONSULAR WAR -Mr. Barolay, the British Consul, had nothing to do with the letter published in the Tribune on Friday.

THE DIFFERENCE BETWEEN TWEEDLEDUM AND TWEEDLEDEE -- It seems that the Parker and Beecher controversy is not yet satisfactorily settled. The friends of the respective belligerents have taken up the cudgels, and still the discussion of the differ ence between tweedledom and tweedledee drags its slow length along In yesterday's number of a contemporary, appears an article of upwards of three columns in length, being a review of the merits of this great question, and giving judgment in favor of Beecher. Though we have read the article very carefully, we confess we are as much puzzled as ever with the perplexities of the knotty points, whether the pious divine is guilty of affixing Dr Parker's name to certain letters purporting to be a correspondence with Doctor Beecher's sister- Mrs. Harriet Beecher Stowe, author of Uncle Tom's Cabin-or whether said Henry Ward Beecher is only guilty of a premature and unauthorized publication of said correspondence; or whether the elequent orator is guilty of none of these things, and had the full assent and consent of Dr. Parker to affix his signature to the jetters. It is a pretty quarrel as it stands. It is now about as complicated as the judges made the Art Union case, in which it was gravely debated whether a lottery was a lottery, or was not a lottery Will saltpertre explode?

tic General Committee of this city appointed a deputation of thirteen democrats to attend at the funeral of Mr. Webster, at Marshfield, and that they did attend. We are also informed that the Whig General Committee of this city appointed a similar committee, but that they were not seen at Marshfield. Why not? If this be so, Why not?

THE WEATHER Was warm from early yesterday morning but the sky heavy, and threatening storm. The thermometer at the Herald Philling seed—At some 70 jo degrees, 0 f. at, 11 degrees; 5 P. M. 70 degrees. Toward noon a fog commenced to thicken around the town, and a little rain fell. It soon cleared away, but towards evening came on again, and continued up to night, when there was indication of a change of weather. Towards ten o'clock a steady rain set in, which continued up to the hour of our going to press. The Broadway Railhoad.—Several of the committee appointed to consider of the proposed railway in Broad-way, met, yesterday at noon, in the Assistant Alderman's rooms; but as there was not a quorum present, Alderman Sturtevant held a short conversation with Messis, Lock-wood and Whiting, the result of which was that the en-quiry was adjourned to W. denesday at 3 o'clock.

Fins.—About seven o'clock yesterday morning a frebroke cut in one of a range of frame buildings situate in Thirty second street between Ninth and Tenth avenues, owned by Thomas All and Robert Carpenter, and occupied by a crowd of poor families. The origin of it remains a mystery. Owing to the combustible nature of the materials of which the houses were built, the flames could not be streeted until four of the buildings were nearly destroyed. A number of firemen were upon the spot and worked with great energy. The furniture and clothing of the poor inmates were much damaged by water. Assistant Captains Trigler and Dunne, of the Twentleth Ward, attended with officers, and preserved the property I jing

Cononen's Inquests.—The Coroner held an inquest yesterday, on the body of — Steward, lying dead at the house No. 18 Themes street. It appeared from the evidence that the deceased worked about the markets, but had no regular employment; that he came in at nine o'clock on Friday night, complaining of pains in his bowels, and with a vomiting. Deceased said he had sickened at two o'clock in the afternoon, after eating some fresh pork for dinner. He continued ill up to five o'clock yesterday, (Saturday,) morning, when he died. Verdict—Death from choiers morbus. Deceased was sixty years of age, and a native of New Hampshire. He was represented as a sober man.

An inquest was held, yesterday, at No. 163 Broadway, upon the body of Mary Butler (colored), who had been maintained for five or six months past, by Mr. Thomas Downing, through charity, as she had an aversion to go to the Colored Home. Upon Friday she threw up some blood and afterwards sat down in a chair and appeared to sleep. Upon approaching her, the people found she was dead. Verdict—Death from debility. She was a native of the District of Columbia, and seventy years of age.

City Politics.

We have received the subjoined letter, from Mr. John O. Halsted, relative to our tabular list of city nominations. We propose to issue another list previous to the voting, and will endeavor to have it perfect :-

New York. Oct. 30, 1852.

Dear Sir—In your nominations in the Fifteenth Assembly district of this city, in your paper of to day, you have the name of John O. Halsted as the whig nominee; it should be Frederick Frye, who is the only and regular whig candidate. By making the correction you will much oblige. Respectfully. JOHN O. HALSTED.

OF BROWN, BROTHERS & CO.—DECISION OF THE MAGISTRATE—COMPLAINT DISMISSED

Justice Osborn, before whom the charge of embezzlement was preferred by Brown, Brothers & Co., against Augustus G. M. Bowen, their cashier clerk for taking funds of the concern to the amount of $220,000, gave his opinion and decision this morning as the merits of the case on arguments submitted to him a few days since. The opinion is contained in the following letter, directed to the counsel of Brown, Brothers & Co.

EDWARD H. OWEN, ESQ.—

Sir—After a most careful consideration of the charges preferred by the house of Brown, Brothers & Co., against Augustus G. M. Bowen, their clerk I have come to the conclusion that he cannot be held to answer for either of the effences, which it was argued he had been guilty of. In this view of the matter I am snatined by the opinion of the City Judge, and A. O. Hall Esq., Deputy District Attorney. I shall, therefore order his discharge.

A National Work of Art.—The Washington Potrait.—Mesers Bachia & Co, have the honor to announce ready for publication, a large, full-length likeness of Washington, engraved on steel by A. H. Richele, in the finest manner, in the mixed style of line, memotiut and stipple, and finished in the highest possible degree of perfection and Filliancy. The publishers, confident of a proper approximation of their efforts to place before the country a picture worthy the man and the nation, present this portait to the people of America, as the most truthful and perfect likeness of Washington extant, and incomparably the most brilliant engraving ever produced in the United States. The most careful attention has been paid to every particular that would contribute towards producing a perfect picture. The head is carefully copied from the standard likeness by Gibbert Stuart. The composition, effects, and accessories are from a nicture painted or pressiy for this engraving, by
